

SECTION I:

Answer to the question no: 01

My role was cleaner for academic building in the SLL. I felt really lucky to work at our academic building. As we spent our time there for study. I never got such an opportunity previously. So, it was totally new experience for me.

Answer to the question no: 02

My friends were with me, as they were also cleaner for SLL. So, I have learned how to work in groups, how distributing a work helps to do tasks easily. Before we started our work, we distributed our works mutually, so that we can finish our tasks timely. But, after working for a long time we were really tired. Then I realized that we felt tired just for working few hours, but people who do this job daily they work really hard. Respect for them has grown in me more. I also learned there is no such thing as a minor task; every task is a difficult.

SECTION II:

Answer to the question no: 02

My work in the SLL reflects Confucian idea of Ren. Confucianism's core principle is ren. It explains how a good human being conducts himself and acts in order to promote a developing human community. According to Confucians instead of seeing each person as a morally independent individual, we should see him as a social creature whose identity is formed from his interactions with others and behavior within the larger human society. Additionally, Ren is also symbolized by someone who embodies the human ideal and inspires others to strive for it. Again, Ren is an intrinsic concept, meaning that everyone is born with the ability to perceive it. One of Confucius' comments about getting ren may give the impression that it is a simple thing. He remarked, "When I want ren, it's as close as the palm of my hand." So, we can see the examples of Ren everywhere around us. For example, the millions of individuals all across the world who look after their loved ones or encourage strangers to conduct good deeds.

However, as a cleaner my work reflects the idea was Ren. I've discovered that there is no such thing as a little task; every activity is challenging. So, being a cleaner for one day it was a proud moment for me. I have learned how cleaners works really hard in order to clean our environment. By seeing my work in SLL activity, my juniors can learn many things. Again, they can follow me by helping people around us. As, I didn't neglect my work, rather I enjoyed, they can learn this thing. I have inspired my juniors to respect others, respect every work, try to help others and many more things. Furthermore, I have worked with my friends, which was a good lesson for me. Because, I have learned how to work as a team. In our larger community we can divide our works in order to do things properly. Additionally, we always should help others, we also should strangers whoever they face any problems. These kinds of virtue can be learned from Ren. My engagement with others and behavior within the larger human society will help to prosper in life. Not just being a cleaner my work reflects Ren, but also by doing many more good activities we can make our works that will reflect Ren. In consideration of the preceding discussion, it can be said that, my work in the SLL by being a cleaner reflects Confucian idea of Ren.
